

ANOTHER FINE LOG BOOK OUT

Harry Locke Issues a Most Completely Mapped Lists of Roads.

Harry Locke, the engineer who has motored over more miles of good, bad and indifferent roads than any man in the west, has just published a Tour Book of his travels that deserves more than passing mention. Mr. Locke is field engineer of a number of good roads and highway associations, a work requiring almost constant travel while searching out and mapping the most feasible routes in Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and southern California.

"Locke's Good Road Maps of Local and Transcontinental Automobile Routes" is the title of the new edition which contains detailed maps and touring information of thousands of miles of roadway. So clear and plain has this data been arranged that strangers need ask no question regarding the right roads to use or where supplies, service and accommodations can be found. The unusual feature is that this fund of information is contained in a pocket size book of 216 pages.

The most prominent highways dealt with are:

- Old Spanish trail.
- National Old trails.
- Borderland route.
- El Camino Real.
- Apache trail.
- Parker cut off.
- Trail to the Sunset.
- Fort Worth-El Paso highway.
- Colorado to Gulf.
- Meridian highway.
- Oklahoma, Texas and Gulf.
- Jefferson highway.
- Dixie highway.
- Dixie Overland route.
- Forest highway.
- Jackson highway.
- Southern National highway.
- Ocean to Ocean highway.

The greatest variety of interesting travel and diversity of entertainment is thus offered to lure motorists on vacation journeys. For instance, one may choose the trip to the White mountains in Arizona at an elevation of 9400 feet, or the Imperial valley of California, which is below sea level; the Atlantic coast of Florida to Palm Beach and Miami, or the route to Los Angeles along the shores of the Pacific; the concrete highways traversing the strange belt of California, or the natural roads through the Indian villages of Arizona; the summit of the Sacramento mountains at Cloudcroft, New Mexico, or the vast expanses of open plains in Texas; the Elephant Butte dam or the Roosevelt dam. The Gulf of Mexico may be skirted from Tampa, Florida, through Mobile, Ala., and New Orleans to Galveston, Texas; or in Louisiana the Mississippi and Red rivers can be followed from Shreveport to New Orleans.

The Thought Of Going To War Makes Pa Sad But Ma Cheers Him Up In The Usual Way
By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

YOU look sad tonight, dearest luv, and Ma to Pa wen he calm hoam last nite.

I am sad, sed Pa, the world is going dippy. We are in an age of jams, sed Pa, & the god Mars has took off his coat & rolled up his sleeves.

Don't let this war excite you too much, sed Ma. You were saying the other day that yure hart felt kind of nervous & bunny & I dont want my noable protector to keel over heefor sayday, sed Ma.

What is the matter with everybody? sed Pa. Is there sun kind of a Mirabe in there that gits into peaple's blood and makes them feel like slammung there nabors in the kinder?

You will not have to go at first, dearest, sed Ma. You have seen yure share of fitting in yure yunger days. If yure stories are true, & now you can hang back & anser the call of duty later, wen the nice men come around & draft you, sed Ma.

I shall prubly not wait to be drafted, sed Pa, as my wild blood will keep in my veins wen I hear a bugle. I had planned to spend my last days in peace, sed Pa, & to die in my country hoam, surrounded by roses & weeping friends. Pa sed, I never dreamed that I wud be found staring at the sky on sun desecrated battle field.

Cheer up, sed Ma, there is no need for you to git so excited. War is a dreadful thing, to be sure, but you havent gone marching away yet. Wen you do go, sed Ma, it will no doubt be at the head of a regiment of brav men that will protect you with there lives. You remember that fortune teller, sed Ma, that told you you were going to die of old age?

If I go, sed Pa, I will die with my face to the foe, & a cheerful smile on my brav lips. Pa sed, That much is a good bet, dearest.

That much is a gamble, sed Ma & I dont believe in gambling. I hope you will decide to stay at hoam the first year or so of the war, & after that, if you insist on going, I will go with you. I can be a nurse, sed Ma, & Bobbie can go & be a drummer boy. He certinly has had practice snuff the last few years. Ma sed, Somebody always has to give him a drum for Christmas.

If we have war, sed Pa, they will no dout have a Bord of Strategy & I will no dout be one of the main officers, sed Pa. Oh, well, sed Pa, us men that live by the sword must die by the sword. I suppose that makes you shudder, dearest, sed Pa to Ma.

No, sed Ma, that makes me laff.
